A Freedom Forever Story

California resident and Youth Pastor, Isaac Parra gave us some insight into his solar story. By switching to solar, Isaac has managed to take his electric bill (which was sometimes as high as $300) down to $10. This is his experience:

What were some fears/hesitations you had about going solar?

“Some of my fears about going to solar were the pricing as well as whether or not our house was located in the right area to soak up the sun. We looked into solar in our previous house but with large very tall trees surrounding our house, it wasn’t going to work. Once my wife and I met with the Solar salesman, he shared with us all the benefits, looked at what we were spending on electricity and when we found out we could be paying a consistent amount per month that was a little lower than our summer bills and that eventually, we would no longer owe, we were sold on going solar.”

What convinced you it was a good decision?

"I switched to solar after our first summer in our new house which is almost twice the square footage of our old house. So, when we started to receive our summer electricity bills, I was shocked at the amounts! There were a few bills that were over $300. After that, I decided to look into solar. The other part that drew me to solar, once I got the info on it, was the idea of consistent payment. I like to work from a monthly budget and with the drastic changes in our bill from season to season, it was not easy to stay on track financially."

What has been your biggest benefit of going solar that you've personally seen?

"We've had our solar installed for about 8 months now and so far, the biggest benefit has been the lower electricity bills. We're hardly paying anything for electricity each month and hopefully, at the end of year one, we look to even be owed money from our electric company!"

What was your electric bill before you decided to go solar?

"Our electric bill before going to solar was all over the map; in the winter months it might be as low as $80 but then in the summer months be closer to $400. Now it's only $10 per month which is a fee from our electric company."

What did Freedom Forever do that you liked?

"I would highly recommend Freedom Forever to anyone looking into a solar company and installer. They were on top of everything and really walked me through every step. Once I made the decision, everything went smoothly and I didn't have to worry about anything. They took care of it all. The three words I would use to describe Freedom Forever is genuine, great communication/customer relations and professional."

What would you tell someone who is thinking about going solar?

"If I was telling someone thinking about going solar, I would advise them to at least meet with a sales rep and see if it's wise for them to go solar. If not much per month is being used on electricity, then solar might not be the best thing, but for most of us who run lots of electronics and use our AC's a ton, especially during the hot months of the year, solar is a no brainer!"
