

The Freedom Forever[®] Experience

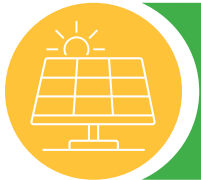

Congratulations on considering solar!
You're one step closer to freedom from high energy bills.

Make money producing your own power

Imagine having the electric company pay you, instead of you paying them. That can happen when you install a solar power system. When you use less energy than what your system produces, you could get a bill credit from your utility company.

Increase the value of your home

Installing solar power can give you a greater return on investment than most home renovations. According to PV Magazine, home solar is a better investment than granite countertops. Solar panels may return up to 97% of your investment where granite countertops only return up to 60% of their cost. The average homeowner sees an increase of about $15,000 to the value of their home. If you decide to sell your home one day, a solar-powered house can attract more buyers who know the benefits.

Make a positive impact on the environment

The average solar home prevents 300 tons of pollution from getting into our breathable air. So, in a span of 50 years, that is the equivalent of saving a 300-acre forest. Just by going solar, you are doing your part to help preserve the environment. Now imagine the positive impact it would have if all of your neighbors decided to go solar, too! The future is looking pretty bright!

How solar works

Now that you know the benefits of going solar, it's time to know exactly how it works. Getting educated on the process of going solar can help you make the most informed decision, and that's our goal!

1 Solar Panels

Solar panels convert sunlight to DC electricity.

2 Conversion of Energy

The inverter converts DC electricity to AC.

3 Electric Distribution

Power is distributed and consumed throughout your household. Any excess power is sent back to the grid for your neighbors use.

4 Energy Metering

This measures the amount of power produced during the day.

5 System Monitoring

This tracks your energy efficiency and helps gauge how effective your solar panels are working.
